$24,861 SPENT FOR "BENEFIT OF U. R." AND CAR TICKETS

Accountant, on Stand, Tells of Vouchers Made Out to Adkins—Some of Tickets for Jourdan.

$11,275 OVER SALARY WENT TO M'CUCCLOCH

Testimony of Additional Fees to Lawyers Brings Total for Attorneys Since 1910 to $731,501.

Exhibits prepared by Edwin H. Wagner, public expert accountant, who took the witness stand when the hearing in the receivership suit of John W. Seaman of New York against the United Railways of America was resumed before Special Master Lamm in the Federal Building, established from the books of the company, these facts:

$731,501 Paid to Attorneys.
1. That payments totaling $38,452.23 were made to attorneys between Jan. 1, 1918, and April 11, 1919, in addition to the sum of $643,048.79, which, testimony last week established, had been paid to attorneys in the eight-year period between 1910 and 1917, inclusive. Thus the sum paid attorneys by the United Railways since 1910 becomes $731,501.02.

As told exclusively in yesterday's Post-Dispatch the additional payments to attorneys included $25,000 each paid to former United States District Attorney Charles A. Houts and Thomas M. Pierce for services principally in connection with the preparation of the so-called compromise ordinance between the company and the company and its presentation to committees and local improvement associations.

2. That money paid to directors and the other expenses of luncheons, at which they conducted their business during 1916, 1917 and 1918 totaled $14,583.

3. That a total of $11,275 was paid to Richard McCulloch, president of the company, in 1915, 1916 and 1917, above his salary of $25,000 a year, under vouchers not itemized, but most of them under the heading "for use and benefit of the United Railways Co."

4. That a total of $24,861 was paid to James Adkins, treasurer, between Jan. 1, 1908, and March 1, 1910, under vouchers that, in a large majority, were "for the use and benefit of the United Railways," in an unitemized way, or for adult street car tickets, some of which were given to Morton Jourdan, an attorney.

5. That a total of $18,978.42 was paid to Morris Keil, cashier of the company, between April, 1917, and April, 1914, to reimburse him for money given to Richard McCulloch, president of the company, and adult street car tickets which he passed out to persons indicated only by their initials or not at all.

6. That $26,000 was paid on May 2, 1913, to James D. Mortimer, president of the North American Co., "for use and benefit of the United Railways," not itemized. This fact also was exclusively told in the Post-Dispatch yesterday.

Cost of Special Meetings.
The figures as to the expenses for fees, mileage, luncheons and incidentals for the special directors' meetings were introduced by attorneys for Seaman at the morning session, but were read to the Court by Henry S. Priest, attorney for United Railways. He itemized what follows:

1916—Fees, $2710; mileage, $450; luncheons, $383; miscellaneous, $73. Total, $3616.
1917—Fees, $3450; mileage, $689; luncheons, $164; miscellaneous, $56. Total, $4359.

1918—Fees, $5260; mileage, $1050; luncheons, $248; miscellaneous, $50; total, $6608.

10 Luncheons Cost $2485.

Judge Lamm asked Priest how many luncheons were covered by the $248 listed for 1918. Priest replied this covered 10 luncheons. He said he did not know what the "miscellaneous" expenses were for.

Wagner, who is a special accountant employed by Seaman to go over the books, testified that these figures were taken from the records and acknowledged by Adkins. He told Judge Lamm he had increased the number of accountants and that they had worked all day yesterday and until 10 o'clock last night.

"Working on Sunday?" said Judge Lamm. "I must tell you that's continued on Page 2, Column 4."

WATERMELONS ARE HERE—AT ABOUT $2.25 EACH, RETAIL

First Carload Arrives From Florida, and When They Get to Consumer Cost About 15 Cents a Slice.

Watermelons are here—at about $2.25 each retail.

The first carload arrived today from Bowling Green, Fla., consigned to S. Danker & Co., 806 North Fourth street. Their average weight was 20 pounds each, and they cost 3 1/2 cents a pound. They were sold to commission houses, who sold them to retailers, whence they finally reached the public, having attained an altitude of about 7 1/2 cents a pound, or 15 cents for a sizable slice.

Commission men said the consignments indicated that the year's crop will be of good quality. The melons received today were Tom Watsons, the familiar long, dark green variety.

SUBSCRIPTIONS TO VICTORY LOAN WERE $5,249,908.300

Oversubscription of Nearly $750,000.—Dallas and Atlanta Did Not Raise Quotas.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Total subscriptions to the fifth, or Victory Liberty Loan, were announced today by the Treasury as $5,249,908.300, an oversubscription of nearly $750,000.

The Atlanta and Dallas Reserve Districts failed to obtain their quotas, Atlanta by less than 1 per cent and Dallas by slightly less than 8 per cent. This was the first year in which any district failed to subscribe its quota.

INDICATIONS 354TH WILL START FOR HOME TOMORROW

No Orders Issued for Men at Camp Upton, but Virtually No Passes Are Permitted to 89th Soldiers.

BIG PARTY AT THE CAMP TONIGHT

Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska Committees Combine Efforts to Entertain the Soldiers.

By CLAIR KENAMORE, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, May 26.—Virtually no passes are being issued to men of the 89th Division at Camp Upton, and this leads to the belief that those already at the camp will start westward tomorrow. Officers in charge of troop movement at the camp had no orders to this effect up to noon.

There is going to be a big party this afternoon and tonight at Camp Upton, given by the Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska committees combined. A special train will take the committees and their friends and fellow states people out there will be dancing and ice cream and cigarettes, and theatrical performances by New Yorkers engaged for the purpose. After the show the visitors will return by special train. It is expected that 500 people will go from New York.

At the Hall of States, 27 West Twenty-fifth street, where most every Western state has a desk, there was a tea yesterday afternoon, given by the New York Missouri Committee, led by Mrs. Schwaiker, to the visiting Missourians.

Judge Wind and Dr. Bailey, who are here representing the St. Louis relatives' auxiliary of the Eighty-ninth, both made speeches, as did Gen. H. C. Clark and several others. Judge Wind and Dr. Bailey started to Washington after the tea.

354TH MAY PARADE HERE ON FRIDAY, MEMORIAL DAY

Mayor's Committee Notified Commanding Officer Will Wire Time of Arrival.

The Mayor's Welcome Committee today received a telegram from the Adjutant-General's office in Washington, which said:

That part of the 354th Infantry assigned to Camp Funston for demobilization has been authorized to stop at St. Louis for parade and reception. Commanding officer will wire you time of arrival as soon as definitely determined.

The Mayor's committee will meet at 10 a. m. tomorrow, at the Chamber of Commerce, to plan arrangements for the parade of the 354th.

A dispatch from Camp Upton, Yaphank, Long Island, where the 354th now is, said it might leave in time to arrive here Friday, Memorial day.

Col. J. R. McAndrews of the General Staff announced to the Post-Dispatch correspondent in Washington Saturday afternoon, that the entire 354th would come here, and that the Missouri part of the 354th, which he believed to be the smaller portion of that regiment, would also parade in St. Louis.

The 354th has 90 officers and 2358 men. The 354th has 100 officers and 2766 men. The Mayor's committee has asked for parades here by these regiments, and by the 354th, which is due to arrive in New York this week.

The 354th will be checked up, on its arrival, to decide, on the principle of self-determination, where it shall parade.

The headquarters of the relatives' auxiliary of the Eighty-ninth Division, at 908 Olive street, received many applications today from relatives for grand stand seats in the twelfth street Court of Honor, for the parade of the 354th.

Headquarters will be open tomorrow night until 9 o'clock. A meeting of members of the 354th who returned ahead of the regiment and who wish to march with the regiment will be held at the Central Public Library tomorrow night.

DRIVER FIGHTS OFF MEN ATTEMPTING TO ROB SALOON

Would-Be Robbers Had Forced Thomas Hanlon and His Bar-Tender Into Basement.

William P. Hild, 52 years old, of 3007 Cass avenue, a driver and collector for the Columbia Brewery, interrupted three armed men in an attempt to rob Thomas Hanlon's saloon, at 1515 Jefferson avenue, Saturday night.

The three men, who had just driven Hanlon and his bartender into the basement, and pulled one of their revolvers apart, jerking out the chamber with 5 cartridges.

The men ran away without getting any money from the saloon, or any of the $200 which Hild was carrying. Hild kept the chamber of the revolver, which he turned over to a policeman. The rest of the revolver was retained by his fleeing owner.

Held was beaten on the head and shoulders with the butts of the revolvers. He was treated in a physician's office for five scalp wounds.

Pleads Guilty to Charge of Paying Negroes $1 Each in McCormick Election.

Charles Patier of Cairo, Ill., a wholesale dry goods merchant, today pleaded guilty to a charge of buying in East St. Louis to a charge of buying votes at the election last November, at which Melville McCormick was a candidate for United States Senator. He was fined $1000, which he paid.

McCormick, a Republican, was elected, defeating Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, who urged that an investigation be started. It was charged in the indictment that Patier, who was chairman of the Republican County Central Committee, paid $1 to each of a number of negroes to vote the Republican ticket.

UNFAVORABLE CONDITIONS HOLD THE NC-4 AT PONTA DELGADA

Flight to Lisbon Hardly Will Be Attempted Before Tomorrow, Navy Department Says.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Confirming weather forecasts of yesterday, Admiral Jackson at Ponta Delgada this morning cabled the Navy Department that the naval seaplane NC-4 still was held at her moorings by unfavorable flight conditions.

Weather reports from the Azores indicated the transatlantic flight probably cannot be resumed before Tuesday at the earliest, it was said early today.

LONDON, May 26.—The United States Naval seaplane NC-4 will not leave Ponta Delgada for Lisbon today, according to a wireless dispatch received here by American naval authorities.

Are you going to the theater or Movies tonight? If so, see Pages 12 and 21.

PARK GUARD HELD FOR SHOOTING BOY NEAR GOLF LINKS

Information Charging Assault With Intent to Kill Issued Against Man Who Wounded Youth Near Art Hill.

WIDOW'S SON IS IN CRITICAL CONDITION

Golfer Says Watchman Kicked Lad When He Lay on Ground—License to Carry Revolver Revoked.

An information charging assault with intent to kill was issued today by the Circuit Attorney's office against Gus A. Bauer, 31 years old, of 2002 Crittenden street, a Park Department guard, who shot William Fenton, 16, of 1041 Tamm avenue, at the foot of Art Hill in Forest Park yesterday morning. Bauer is a prisoner.

The boy, who is the son of Mrs. Mary Fenton, a widow, is in a critical condition in St. Luke's Hospital, being wounded in the abdomen. The shooting was without provocation, except that the boy and two companions ran from the guard after he had called to them to halt.

Bauer's license as a private watchman, which authorized him to carry a revolver, was revoked after his arrest.

Guard Hid in Bushes.

Bauer, according to his own statement, hid in the bushes near the golf links, and when the three boys came near him, he called to them to stop. He admits that he had not seen them do anything out of the way, either then or at any previous time.

But he says some boys had made trouble, both by attacking the regularly employed caddies and by picking up golf balls that had been knocked outside the course. That was why he called to the three boys to halt.

When the boys did not stop, Bauer says, he drew his revolver, and he says that in pursuing them he stumbled, and the revolver was discharged accidentally.

The bullet entered young Fenton's back. Two men who were playing golf, and who saw the shooting, say they did not see the guard stumble. One of these witnesses says he saw the guard come up to the boy and kick him on the back of the head. Fenton also says the guard kicked him, after ordering him to get up.

Sought Jobs as Caddies.

The boy could not get up, and was taken to the hospital in an ambulance. His two younger companions, Edward Burkhardt and Earl Lorenzen, said they and Fenton were on their way to apply for jobs as caddies. The Burkhardt boy said he had been attacked and slapped by a park guard several days before, and had told the others of his experience, and that for this reason they ran when Bauer called to them.

The two boys, at the Circuit Attorney's office today, said they had gone to the park to pick up lost balls, to be sold to golf players, but repeated that they meant to apply for jobs as caddies.

Park Commissioner Cunliff said today that he was appointed last month, having been certified by the Efficiency Board as having stood sixth among 28 in an examination. No political influence was used in Bauer's behalf, so far as could be learned.

He said Bauer's record had been good.

The force of guards in all the parks numbers 22, with a Sergeant in command, the Commissioner said. The men receive $85 a month, wear gray uniforms, and receive their instructions as to the use of weapons from the Police Board, which gives them their licenses as private watchmen, authorizing them to carry the weapons.

Balls Stolen, Cunliff Says.

Cunliff said he was at the hospital when the wounded boy arrived there, and that Guard Davis, who went to the hospital, told him he had previously ordered the boy away from the golf links. Davis acted on suspicion, having no knowledge that the boy had committed any offense.

Cunliff said there had been complaints of the disappearance of balls, and that it had been charged that guards had been using the links and carboys balls away, or buried them in the mud, to get them later.

He was asked whether there had not been complaints that park guards had tried to extort money from automobilists and others whom they found in the parks after dark. He said he had investigated a number of such complaints, and had found that the offenders were not guards, but men not in uniform, pretending to be guards. He said he found only one case in which a guard appeared to be at fault, and that he discharged the guard. That was two years ago.

Forty-eight Saloons Pay $305 Each For One Day's Business.

CLEVELAND, O., May 26.—After midnight Cleveland will be the largest "dry" city in the country. While Saturday night marked the closing of nearly 1200 Cleveland saloons under the State law, there were still 58 saloons open for the sale of liquor here today.

Proprietors of these had paid a fee of $305 for the privilege of remaining open one day, the yearly license period having ended last Saturday.

15,000 REPORTED DEAD FROM VOLCANO'S ERUPTION IN JAVA

More Than 20 Villages Wiped Out in Two Neighborhoods, According to Advices to Amsterdam.

By the Associated Press. AMSTERDAM, May 26.—The volcano of Kalut, in Java, has burst into eruption, wiping out 20 villages in the district of Brengat and 11 in the vicinity of Pilitar, and causing deaths estimated at 15,000, according to a Central News dispatch received here.

The volcano Kalut (Kelot) is one of the 14 active volcanoes on the Island of Java. Kalut is in Eastern Java south of Surabaya.

For its size Java has more volcanoes than any other country in the world. Kalut's last serious eruption was on May 23, 1901, when 181 persons were killed. The volcano of Galoenggoen became very active in 1822 and 114 villages were destroyed and more than 4000 lives lost. Much of the island was laid waste by eruptions and earthquakes in August, 1883, when the loss of life was estimated at 35,000.

M'ALLISTER GAINS IN CONTEST FOR JUDGESHIP

Senator Reed Declared to Have Lined up Missouri Democratic Congressmen for Him.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch. WASHINGTON, May 26.—By assiduous effort, Senator Reed of Missouri has lined up the Democratic members of the Missouri delegation in Congress in support of Attorney-General McAllister for Missouri for the Federal district judgeship at St. Louis, as against Frank Thompson, the candidate favored by former Gov. Folk and Breckinridge Long, Third Assistant Secretary of State.

As the situation stands at present, the race has narrowed down to these two men. Until a few days ago Thompson appeared to have the better chance. Reed's successful missionary work among the Congressmen, some of whom had endorsed other candidates, makes McAllister loom up strongly.

As seen by some politicians here, the contest for the judgeship is now a fight between Reed and Folk. Congressmen who dislike the former Missouri Governor and hold that he is responsible for the disruption of the Democratic party in Missouri have been swayed to McAllister because of Folk's backing of his principal rival. This sentiment was expressed in the comment: "We can't allow a man who was beaten by 35,000 to dictate the appointment of a district judge."

There is little doubt that McAllister will be named if Senator Reed had not antagonized the President. Normally, Senator Reed would name the appointee. It remains to be seen whether the backing of the Missouri delegation will be sufficient to swing Attorney-General Palmer, and through him, the President, to Reed's candidate.

PRESIDENT SAYS AMERICA WILL KEEP SEIZED GERMAN SHIPS

Informing Officials at Washington That Council of Four Has Reached Full Understanding.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 26.—President Wilson has informed officials here that the Council of Four at Paris has reached a full understanding by which the United States will retain the 700,000 tons of German shipping seized in American ports when this country entered the war.

Great Britain had proposed that this tonnage, as well as German ships seized in other countries, be placed in a common pool and allotted on the basis of tonnage lost through action of enemy submarines. The United States has steadfastly refused to accede to this plan.

War Risk Insurance Bureau Not to Wait for President's Signature.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, May 26.—Payments of past due and current allotments to families of soldiers and sailors and dependents of Civil War veterans will be made by the War Risk Insurance Bureau without waiting for the formal signing of the urgent deficiency bill by President Wilson.

Authority to send the checks forward "without a moment's delay" was cabled to Secretary Glass by President Wilson after the President had been informed that the $45,000,000 deficiency measure had been passed by Congress. The bill is now on its way to Paris, where it will be signed by the President.

HAWKER AND GRIEVE LAND TODAY IN SCOTLAND

British Cross-Atlantic Fliers Found 800 Miles From Irish Coast by Steamer; Alighted After Going 1100 Miles; on Water Hour and Half.

BOTH MEN ARE IN PERFECT HEALTH

Steamer Lacked Wireless to Send News of Rescue; London Excited; "I Was Confident All the Time," Says Mrs. Hawker.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, May 26.—An official statement confirming news dispatches of the rescue of the aviators, Harry G. Hawker and Lieutenant-Commander Mackenzie Grieve, was issued last night. It said:

"Harry G. Hawker and Lieutenant-Commander Grieve were rescued in latitude 50 degrees and 20 minutes north and longitude 29 degrees 30 minutes west. They alighted close to a steamer, owing to a defect in the water circulation of their motor. Both men are in perfect health. The airplane was not saved."

Missing for six days, having started on their cross-Atlantic journey Sunday a week ago, and virtually given up for lost, Hawker and Grieve, British aviators, who essayed their flight without protection against disaster, gave what their trail airplane afforded them as a definite safe aboard a British warship off the Orkneys. Today they will reach the mainland and proceed to London, where they will be acclaimed as men returned to life.

Some 1100 miles out from Newfoundland and 800 from the Irish coast, on Monday, May 19, the aviators, making the best of an engine which was failing to function properly, were forced to alight on the water. The little Danish steamer Norfolk, bound from New Orleans and Norfolk for Aarhus, Denmark, picked the wayfarers up and continued on her northward voyage.

RECOGNITION FOR KOLCHAK REPORTED AS DECIDED UPON

Powers Said to Make Conditions He and Denikine Accept Assembly and League Boundaries.

REPORT THAT LENINE ASKS FOR ARMISTICE

Bolshevik Hold on Petrograd Weakens; Omsk Troops Expected Soon to Be in Touch With Allies.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 25.—The Council of Four of the peace conference has decided conditionally to recognize the anti-Bolshevik governments of Admiral Kolchak and Gen. Denikine, according to Reuter's Agency here. The conditions of the recognition are that, regarding the future of Russia, these Governments agree to convene and accept the verdict of a genuine constituent assembly; likewise, that the league of nations convene and its consequences as affecting the boundaries of the former empire are accepted.

The constituent assembly is to determine the future form of Government for Russia.

The policy adopted, it is added, will enable the allies to recognize and assist any force in Russia co-operating in the struggle against Soviet rule, because such recognition will be in force only until such time as the constituent assembly decides upon the permanent form of government. The regional Governments will then expire automatically.

The allies will not furnish Admiral Kolchak and Gen. Denikine with troops, but will supply them with arms, munitions, money and food on a larger scale than hitherto.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, May 25.—While there is no confirmation that Nikolai Lenin, the Bolshevik Premier of Russia, has proposed an armistice to Admiral Kolchak, head of the all-Russian Government at Omsk, there are indications that the Bolsheviks are anxious over the fate of Petrograd and Moscow. A wireless Russian dispatch states that the defense committee of Moscow is appealing for women volunteers for military service in towns and admits that non-Bolshevik troops are fighting in the outskirts of Riga on the left bank of the Dvina.

According to a dispatch from the Reuter correspondent with the allied forces in the Murmansk region, which reflects military views, there is no doubt entertained that Petrograd can be taken but he says its capture would be useless, owing to the Allies' inability to feed the population, as the British lines of communications in the north are with a single line of railways.

The correspondent adds that Admiral Kolchak's troops should be in Tikka in six weeks and soon afterwards should be in contact with the Archangel front. He says, once supplies from Siberia are assured, the capture of Moscow and Petrograd will be a matter of only a short time.

New Kolchak Units Moved Toward the Front Weekly.

By the Associated Press.
OMSK, Tuesday, May 20.—The military situation is regarded here as satisfactory, and each week new units are being equipped and moved toward the front.

The Bolsheviks have massed forces in the Semara sector in a desperate effort to hold the grain-growing section of the country, which apparently, by their own admission, the Bolshevik regime is bound to collapse. They won a minor success east of Semara, including the recapture of the town of Bielebel. This has been offset, however, by the gains made by Siberian forces along the Viatka River in the direction of Viatka.

Fighting is going on in the streets of Orenburg. At Uralak, 210 miles southwest of Orenburg, Cossack forces, which have been carrying on an isolated defensive, have been joined by Siberian troops and the Government's position in this region has been greatly strengthened.

Reorganizing Cabinet.

The work of reorganizing the Cabinet of the all-Russian Government is proceeding, it being intended to effect closer co-ordination with the military control and at the same time work more efficiently along the lines of the program adopted by Admiral Kolchak. Former Ministers of Justice and Education M. Starinkovich and M. Sapozhnikov have been succeeded by Prof. Teberg and Prechazhensky, who, it is believed,

60-HOUR BATTLE OF NC-3 WITH 30-FOOT WAVES TOLD BY TOWERS TO POST-DISPATCH

Patrol Ships Did Not Hear Radio Signals of Flyer—How Plane Fought Her Way Into Ponta Delgada.

The Post-Dispatch herewith presents the last installment of the account by Commander John H. Towers of the flight of the NC-3. He had narrated previously in these columns the adventures of the flagship of the seaplane squadron on the cruise from Rockaway to Trepassy. Below he tells of the flight from Trepassy, the gallant struggle with adverse elements and the final arrival at Ponta Delgada, San Miguel, the Azores. His story was written for Commander Towers and his crew left Ponta Delgada for Plymouth, England, on the destroyer Stockton, and was cabled to the Post-Dispatch by way of London.

PONTA DELGADA (via London), May 25.—Three seaplanes took off from Trepassy, N. F., at 10 p. m. (Greenwich time), the NC-3 leading the formation, and headed for the Azores. Everything was favorable until heavy clouds were encountered about midnight. We climbed above the clouds and lost sight of the two other seaplanes. Just about daylight we went down through the clouds. At daylight and shortly afterward we encountered heavy rain squalls and very rough air. We continued on our course, although we could not see the destroyers.

At 1:30, after flying 15 1/2 hours, I knew we should be in the vicinity of land, but as the air was so rough, I decided to land and get a sextant observation in order to determine our position, as we only had a few hours' gasoline left and the pilots were in bad shape after five hours' fight with squalls. I discovered too late that a heavy sea was running. It strained the seaplane so badly when it hit the water that it was impossible to get off again.

Fought Way Into Port.

Observation showed our position to be about 60 miles southeast of the patrol ships, which apparently did not hear our radio signals. A heavy gale arose during the evening and it was a case of fighting into port.

At the end of 48 hours of continuous buffeting, during which the seaplane was very badly wrecked by the 30-foot waves, we had worked our way over toward San Miguel and sighted that island by mid-direct the work of the two departments to better advantage.

It is also proposed to combine the Ministry of War with the general staff, under the presidency of the Chief of Staff, Gen. Lebedev, who will move to Ekaterinburg, where he will be nearer the scene of operations. This ministry has in the past been the recruiting and drilling of soldiers up to the point where the men were incorporated into combat units. After that time the men passed under control of the staff, an arrangement which resulted in some confusion of authority. Certain considerations regarding the provisioning and equipping of the men will also be influenced by the proposed change.

Admiral Kolchak has returned from a visit to Ekaterinburg, where he presided at a conference of manufacturers, peasants and industrial organizations in the Ural district. He gave them assurances that the Government would help in the rehabilitation of industries and in the building up of transportation facilities. Guarantees were given a Jewish delegation that the rights of Jews would be safeguarded and several Jewish organizations expressed confidence in the Government, sending cash donations for the army. Admiral Kolchak outlined the work proposed by the Department of Agriculture in framing land reform legislation which would guarantee peasants the tenure of land which they held until increasing the number of landholders by a large percentage in many districts. ## HAWKER AND GRIEVE SAFE AFTER SEA RESCUE

hours, when the word was flashed that the destroyer had come across the steamer and transferred Hawker and Grieve, and was taking them to the harbor on the north coast of Scotland, about 100 miles east of the Butt of Lewis.

The destroyer Revenge reported to the Admiralty that Hawker and Grieve would sleep on board last night, and expected to reach London at 7 o'clock tomorrow evening.

Eight destroyers, after a thorough search of the Atlantic for 300 miles from the Irish coast had given up the quest and were practically no hope that the airmen were alive.

It was a forlorn hope that the aviators might be picked up by some craft without wireless. The Danish steamer Mary, the rescuer, was crawling along at nine knots when she came upon the flyers.

Nothing except some great battle has excited London more than the unexpected tidings. The modest Hawker home near Surlingham was quickly the center of interest. Crowds of people swarmed there. Mrs. Hawker, who had only on Saturday received a telegram of condolence from King George, said: "I had a presentment all along that I should see my husband again. I was confident all the time, although every one consoled with me. I am overjoyed and too overcome to talk now."

"Sunday My Lucky Day."

There was a merry party at the Hawker home last night. Many callers, including Thomas O. M. Sopwith, head of the Sopwith Aviation Co., builders of the machine in which Hawker attempted to cross the Atlantic, going to the house to congratulate Mrs. Hawker. Many airmen were among those who called.

Mrs. Hawker, even on Saturday evening, was still hopeful, and declared that Sunday was her lucky day, and said: "We shall have good news tomorrow." Yesterday her home was inundated with telegrams of congratulation and the telephone in the gaily beflagged dwelling was constantly ringing.

In a message expressing his own and the Queen's sympathy and condolence, King George on Saturday expressed his fear that Hawker had lost his life. He added: "I feel that the nation lost one of its most able and daring pilots and that he sacrificed his life for the fame and honor of British flying."

Posts Notice on Home.

Mrs. Hawker, on receiving the news from the Mary, posted a notice outside her home reading: "Mr. Hawker has been found. He is on the boat Mary bound for Denmark."

Hawker has sent the following message from the Revenge to the Daily Mail:

"My machine stopped owing to the water filter in the fuel pump being blocked with refuse, such as

THE Maltese cross indicates approximately the point in the ocean at which Hawker and Grieve were rescued, after their engine stalled. When they descended they had completed a little more than half their journey. They elected to make a non-stop flight along the transatlantic steamship route to the United Kingdom. The American naval flyers are proceeding along the course indicated by the dotted line. It is considerably longer but affords an intermediate stopping place at the Azores where the NC-4 is now awaiting favorable weather to proceed to Lisbon and Portugal.

solder, the like shaking loose in the radiator.

"It was no fault of the Rolls-Royce motor, which ran absolutely perfectly from start to finish, even when all the water had boiled away. "We had no trouble in landing on the sea, where we were picked up by the tramp ship Mary, after being in the water for 90 minutes. We leave Thurso at 2 p. m. Monday, arriving in London Tuesday evening."

The London Daily Mail, which offered a purse of $50,000 for the first flight by a heavier-than-air craft across the Atlantic Ocean, will give Hawker and Grieve a consolation prize of $5000 ($25,000).

"That Is Fine," Say Naval Officers in Washington.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 25.—News of the rescue of Harry G. Hawker and Lieutenant-Commander Mackenzie Grieve, British airmen, was received nowhere with greater rejoicing than in the Navy Department here. American naval officers, from rivals of the intrepid Britishers in the attempt to be the first to cross the Atlantic through the air, turned to ardent supporters the moment Hawker and his navigator "jumped off" a week ago in the flight for fame and fortune.

Since the failure of the British airmen to arrive on scheduled time in Ireland greatest anxiety for their safety has been expressed by naval officers here.

"That is fine," was the general comment of officers at the Navy Department when told that Hawker and Grieve had been picked up at sea.

Little Freighter, Unequipped for Rescue Work, Saved Hawker and Grieve.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, May 25.—The Danish steamship Mary, which picked up Hawker and Grieve, is the only freighter of the name in Lloyd's register. She was originally the British freighter Grovholm. The Mary is not equipped for rescue work, being just a little single-decked ship traveling in high latitudes to shorten the route and save coal. Her net tonnage is 1124 and her length 278 feet, and the name of her skipper is given in Lloyd's as Capt. A. Duhn.

Erzberger Sends Note of Protest.

By the Associated Press.
BERLIN, May 24.—Mathias Erzberger, chairman of the German Armistice Commission, has sent a note to Gen. Naudant, the representative of Marshal Foch at Spa, protesting against the alleged encouragement given by Gen. Gerard of the French army to those seeking the separation of the Bavarian palatinate from Bavaria and Germany. The note was sent through Gen. von Hammerstein, the German military representative at Spa.

AUSTRIANS SEND FIRST NOTE TO THE POWERS

Treaty to be Presented This Week After Renner Objects to Delay.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 25.—The credentials of the Austrian peace delegation at St. Germain-en-Laye have been approved by the credentials commission of the peace congress and the Austrian delegates have sent their first note to the allied and associated Powers. The note has to do with Carinthian affairs.

The Council of Four has completed the Austrian treaty, with the exception of financial clauses and the southern boundary, on which some details are still to be straightened out.

Dr. Karl Renner, the Austrian Chancellor, made an appeal to Premier Clemenceau, president of the peace conference, on Saturday for the expediting of the peace negotiations with Austria, according to a Vienna dispatch today. The Chancellor expressed fears that internal disorders would result from continued delay.

There were indications today that the negotiations for the settlement of the Italian problem were being resumed after a week's suspension. It is understood that a strong effort is being made to have the treaty of London form the basis of the settlement.

ALL RESPONSIBLE FOR WAR, GERMANS' 13TH NOTE SAYS

Communication Declares Allies Caused Some of Damage—Admits Wrong Done to Belgium.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, May 25.—Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's thirteenth note to the allied council was delivered yesterday morning. It is a rejoinder to the council's reply to the German note regarding responsibilities. Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau insists that Germany's only responsibility is for the violation of Belgian neutrality, which it is ready to make reparation for, and declares that all the Powers were responsible for the war and that the material damage done was the work of the allied armies as well as the Germans.

With the exception of one minor concession, all suggestions and counter proposals by Germany for the disposition of the Saar Basin have been rejected by the reply of the allied and associated Powers. Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's appeal for an oral discussion of the points at issue on the subject was ignored.

Concession as to Payment.

The concession agreed to is that Germany might create a prior charge upon her assets or revenues for the payment of the mines in the Saar region, if the plebiscite goes against France. If, however, the sum agreed is not paid within a year from the date it is due the reparation commission shall effect payment under instructions from the league of nations. This alteration was made in view of Germany's declaration that it was impossible for her to accumulate a sufficient sum of gold with which to pay for the mines in the 15 years before the plebiscite is taken since other reparations would constitute a constant drain.

Premier Clemenceau's reply to the German notes on the proposed western boundaries of Germany which was made public last night denies Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's assertion that German territories are the subject of shifting from one sovereignty to another like pawns in a game. M. Clemenceau points out that the desire is that the inhabitants of the territories in question shall be taken into consideration, the only exception being that part of Prussia Moseret inhabited by only 500 persons.

Thousands See Cyclist Killed.

NEW YORK, May 25.—One of the biggest Sunday crowds Van Cortlandt Park has ever known, which included the wife and baby of "Dare Devil" Max Schreyer, saw the famous cyclist crash into the side of a huge tank there yesterday when he missed his wild leap for life down a steeply-graded 90-foot incline, fracturing his skull, breaking an arm and receiving serious internal injuries. His condition is critical. The exhibition was being staged for the benefit of the Salvation Army's home service fund campaign.

PARIS, May 25.—In coming directly from the commission and unqualified opinion is that the treaty will signed unless unexpected action is made in the terms, based upon Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau's conference with Scheldemann at Spa.

The Germans will go through the form of submitting notes separate item, so the record complete, but there is evidence to reject the treaty, even issued by the Germans last responsibility which the guilt is denied and the blame is laid on Russia.

Earlier they sent a note highly important question of property in war time, which ing to the terms of the made inviolate. The ma which reparations are to makes the distinction more than real, for the treaty that the German Governm ally seize property of all lying in allied regions, which retained by alien property in the allied countries, worth $2,500,000,000 worth, man wealth. By this metho property is converted into holdings which can legally be printed by creditor countries.

DRUGGIST BEATEN BY HIGHWAYMAN IS EXPECTED TO DIE

Herman A. Kunz, Attacked in His Store at Fourteenth and Olive, Unconscious at City Hospital.

EIGHT OTHER PERSONS INJURED IN HOLDUPS

Depredations Include Robbery of Poor Boxes in Church — One Robber Thought to Have Been Wounded.

One man was assaulted and injured, probably fatally, and seven other men and a woman were held up and robbed by highwaymen who displayed unusual activity early yesterday in different parts of the city.

Herman A. Kunz, 47 years old, druggist at Fourteenth and Olive streets, living at 2831 Accomac street, is at the city hospital unconscious with a fractured skull as the result of being beaten on the head by one of two young highwaymen in his store shortly before 9 a. m. yesterday. A piece of cast iron 13 inches long and an inch thick, wrapped in a newspaper, was dropped by the robbers as they were surprised robbing the place and fled.

The robbers took $25 from a safe but failed to get $240 in a cash drawer in the safe. They dropped 80 cents and $2.25 in stamps in the safe when they were surprised and scattered $3.60 on the floor in their haste to get away.

Kunz so far has been unable to give any details of the assault, owing to his condition.

Saw Youth Leaving Store.
R. E. Messie, brother-in-law of the druggist, and John Guillot, Regent Hotel, a customer, gave police their information. Both arrived at the drug store about the same time at 9 a. m. Messie entered by a side door on Fourteenth street and Guillot by the Olive street door. As they stepped inside a youth about 20 years old, with dark face and wearing a gray cap, rose up from a point near the safe and ran out, joining a second youth at the door, and both fled.

Messie found Kunz unconscious in a chair behind the prescription counter, the iron by his side and the safe open and rifled, with money and papers scattered all about.

Messie told police Kunz was slightly deaf. A bottle of medicine dropped near the safe indicated, police say, the men had called for the medicine and when Kunz had prepared it they assaulted him as he was about to hand it to them.

Thinks He Wounded Robber.

George W. Waford, 2010 Cass avenue, told police he believes he wounded a robber who held him up in his home at 6 a. m. yesterday. He fired one shot from a rifle as the man ran out a door, he said, and the man stumbled, but continued and got away.

He said he was held up when he answered a knock at his door. The man was outside with a revolver, he said, and pushed him back into the house and made him sit on a bed. He was ransacking the room, Waford said, when Waford jumped up and knocked the revolver out of the robber's hand. He seized his rifle behind a door and was about to capture the man when the latter picked up the revolver from the floor and fled out the door. Waford fired as the man ran.

Frank J. Fishman, 5893 Highland avenue, was stopped by a negro at Hamilton and Easton avenues at 1 a. m. yesterday and ordered to give up his valuables. The negro was armed with a "billy," Fishman said. After taking $25.62 cash, a diamond ring and his watch, the negro ordered Fishman to take off a cravat and he was wearing, which the negro donned and fled.

N. H. Tyree, Atlanta, Ga., a guest at the New Plaza Hotel, was held up by two negroes near Twenty-second and Market streets and robbed of his watch valued at $55 at 8 p. m.

Three white men, one of them armed, stopped Chester Coleman, 2010 Carr street, near Leonard and Washington avenues at 12:30 a. m. and robbed him of $18.

Saloon Keeper Is Robbed.

John Goodman, saloon keeper at Grand and Chouteau avenues, on his way from home to open the place at midnight last night, was stopped by three men, one of them armed, in front of 1221 South Grand avenue, and robbed of $90, his watch, diamond stud and a $50 Liberty Bond.

Andrew George, a butcher of 917 North Ninth street, was about to close his shop at 1 a. m. yesterday when a man stepped into the place and with a revolver ordered George to throw up his hands. The robber took $200 which George had just finished counting and was preparing to put away in a safe place over Sunday.

Woman Robbed of $319.

Mrs. Charles Connors, 2320 Olive street, cashier of the West End National Cafe, 2324 Olive street, reported to police yesterday she had been held up and robbed of $269, the receipts of the cafe, and $50 of her own money by an armed negro while she was waiting for a street car at E. and

a. m. yesterday. The negro, she said, was apparently lying in wait for her as she stepped out of a hallway near the corner where she usually takes a street car home.

Rob Poor Boxes in Church.
Burglars broke down a door to force an entrance to St. Charles Borromeo Church, 2901 Locust street, early yesterday morning, and after getting inside broke open and robbed the poor boxes. They also broke open a desk belonging to Father Spigardi and scattered papers over the floor of the church. The amount of money taken from the collection boxes is not known.

Burglars using a canopy to reach a second-floor window got into the apartment of S. S. Gibney, 5452 Enright avenue, during the absence of the family yesterday. They took jewelry and trinkets worth $100.

Jewelry valued at $350 was stolen by burglars from the home of Charles N. Sparks, 6074 Cabanne avenue, during the absence of the family yesterday.

Automobiles reported stolen Sunday belonged to Charles S. Gross, 5774 Kingsbury boulevard; Moses M. Cohn, 5730 Enright avenue; William A. Federer, 3841 Wyoming street; William L. Bonenkamp, 2046 Adelaide avenue; George H. Field, 5101 Kensington avenue and Martin Fitzgerald, 2811 Cass avenue.

Burglars in the office of the Imperial Oil Co., 1907 Locust street, early today broke open a small safe and after taking $61 in cash and $3 in 2-cent stamps, scattered a half dozen books of War Savings Stamps on the floor, tossing them aside as worthless. They broke off the combination and forced open an inner door to get into the safe.

Joseph Elgin, Excelsior Springs,

Mo., reported to police yesterday he had been robbed of $95 and his railroad ticket by a negro armed with an automatic revolver in a house near Moore and Market streets. He said he had been invited into the house to get drunk by a negro woman, and when she stepped out of the room the negro stepped in. He was kicked out of the house after being robbed, he said.

Dr. Howard to Speak.

Dr. C. F. Howard, who has recently returned from France, will speak this evening under the auspices of Wilkey Encampment, No. 1, I. O. O. F. in Hall No. 1, Odd Fellows' Building, on conditions in the war zone as he saw them. A musical program will also be given.

ST. JOHNS REJOICES AT NEWS OF RESCUE

Preparations Going Forward by Other Fliers for Cross-Atlantic Flight.

By the Associated Press.
ST. JOHNS, N. F., May 26.—Messages from London announcing the safety of Harry G. Hawker and his navigator, Lieutenant-Commander Mackenzie Grieve, spread through this city as rapidly as the airmen swooped over it a week ago starting the transatlantic flight attempt.
Rejoicing was general, but perhaps greatest among the group of British aviators who had been preparing to follow in the Sopwith plane's success. Captain Frederick P. Ray-ham, who was stopped in his attempt to follow Hawker by the collapse of his Martinside undercar-riage, had held firmly to the belief that Hawker and Grieve would be found somewhere north of Scotland.
The basis of his opinion lay in weather reports upon which he and Hawker jointly decided to start and in subsequent reports of storm areas shown north of the Azores on the last map which Hawker saw before
"hopping off."

"This storm assumed the form of an egg, extending northwest from the Azores," said Rayham. "That meant that Hawker would first encounter northeast winds, then easterly winds, then a strong set of winds from the south, those from the south being continuous and stronger than the others. These would have blown him north onto the course of the steamer Mary presumably."

Further apparent substantiation of Rayham's theory was found in reports brought here by the British freight ship Glendevon, which arrived from London after a stormy passage.
Overheard a "D. K. A." Clifford Nixon, wireless officer of the Glendevon, said that at 1:30 Monday morning (Greenwich time)
he overheard the steamer Sennager sending to "D. K. A." the Sop-with's radio designation, her position, as 50 degrees 28 minutes north latitude and 30 degrees west longitude.
Subsequently the Sennager informed Nixon that it had sighted the red light of a plane to the north. A few hours later the Glendevon was overaken by a northeast gale, working down from the direction in which the red light, believed to have been that of the Sopwith plane, had disappeared. This, according to Ray-ham's theory, was the storm which Hawker passed before being struck by the southwesterly blow.
The Glendevon sent out repeated calls to other ships broadcasting the reported positions of the Sopwith and requesting that ships stand by to give aid, but received a response only from the cable ship Faraday.
The log of the Glendevon shows
the development of the weather with Hawker's flight, and which Capt. H. W. Suddery of the Glendevon said he stated at the time was "so tempestuous that no plane could live through it." During the 24 hours covering Hawker's flight the weather went from calm, with light westerly winds and a moderate sea, to a full gale, with heavy rain, in which the Glendevon rolled and strained heavily. Officers said that if Hawker had started a day earlier he would have met ideal conditions.
Assembling of the Viny bombing plane, which the Alcock-Brown team of transatlantic fliers has entered in the race to Ireland, was begun today. The machine will be put together at Quidvidi Field, but another site, possibly at Harbor Grace, may be chosen for the ocean "hop-off."

Capt. Alcock, 26 years old, brings to his task a knowledge of aviation gained in the Dardanelles campaign,
where, with scout planes not available, he built a higher speed fighting plane from his own designs. His is said to have been the only plane built on active service by the British forces
during the war.
Lieut. Brown, his assistant, was a war prisoner, having been taken attention to his own design. He is over the lines. He says he is to be married and will reclaim his former American citizenship "when I finish this job."

Use of Rayham's hangar for the assembling of the Viny bomber will not interfere with reconstruction of Rayham's shattered plane, which is now being repaired at a shop in this city. Rayham now plans to make his Martinside ready for trial flights with the old engine replacing it with a new one for the transatlantic attempt. The crew of the Handley-Page has begun the third week of assembling their plane with the hope of having it ready for a trial flight
early next week.

Report Port's Big Machine Will Not Try Ocean Flight Denied.
LONDON, May 25.—Reports that Lieutenant-Colonel John C. Porte's
big flying boat, the Felixstowe F.5, will not make the attempt to fly
the Atlantic were declared by the Air Ministry today to be without foundation. The Post-Dispatch is informed that the Porte seaplane is now being packed for shipment, although no definite date for the flight
has been set.

The delay is asserted to be in conformity with the Air Ministry's policy of giving private concerns the first chance to make a transatlantic flight for the purpose of stimulating the commercial development of aircraft.

A Limited Number of Large, Beautiful, Brunswick Phonographs

With a Large Selection of Records Included Will be Sold at the Price of $112.50

We emphasize that the number of these special outfits we will sell on this basis is limited so every person who has even remotely considered the purchase of a Phonograph will find it to his advantage to visit the Vandervoort Music Salons and investigate the merits of the Brunswick.
The merits of the Brunswick are so well-known that comment in that direction on our part is unnecessary—music lovers, from Maine to California voice their approval of the Brunswick by purchasing it for themselves. So—when you have the opportunity of securing a fine large Phonograph of this kind, together with twenty-five selections on the re-

th ANNIVERSARY of the BLUE BIRDS

NINE years ago the Blue Bird idea was conceived. It was a decided innovation in merchandising—not another store in America had offered its patrons a selling idea of such broad proportion. The Blue Birds have grown more popular each season. And today thousands and thousands of St. Louis' thrifty shoppers are acquainted with facts of the case, viz.: Blue Bird Savings are on merchandise taken from our regular stocks and underpriced for one day—Tuesday only. Attend the 9th Anniversary of the Blue Bird Sale tomorrow.

1000 Pairs Women's $1.85 Silk Hosiery at $1.50

A remarkable purchase of women's fine quality, full fashioned Hosiery of the celebrated Eiffel brand and several other well-known brands are included. Every pair is strictly first quality, and they are made with double lisle toes, soles, high spliced heels and lisle garter tops. The color range includes browns and grays, as well as blacks and whites, and at Tuesday's price we urge you to select a season's supply.

MISS EUGENIA NICHOLS' BRETROTHAL ANNOUNCED

She Will Marry Theodore Sweetzer, Who Formerly Lived in St. Louis.

Mrs. AND MRS. WILLIAM L. NICHOLS of 3221 West Pine boulevard have announced the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eugenia Bent Nichols, to Theodore Sweetzer. Miss Nichols was educated in St. Louis and is related to many of the old and prominent families of the city, her mother having been Miss Eugenia B. Carr. Miss Nichols has taken an active part in numerous social affairs and is considered among the prettiest of the many pretty women for which St. Louis is noted. Mr. Sweetzer formerly resided in St. Louis with his parents, but the family are now making their home in New York. He recently received his discharge from the army, in which he was a Lieutenant of aviation and saw service abroad. The date for the wedding has not been set.

"THE UNPARDONABLE SIN" OPENS AT THE COLUMBIA

"The Unpardonable Sin," a special production, based on Rupert Hughes' novel of the same title, but to a very considerable extent "made over" for screen purposes, opens for an indefinite engagement at the Columbia yesterday. It is an "after-the-war" play, but contains no actual war scenes.

The effect, if not the purpose, of this film is to keep alive hatred for Germany at the time when we are asking her to sign a treaty of peace which, theoretically at least, will let bygones be bygones.

The theme is German cruelty to women in Belgium and the "unpardonable sin" is the bestiality of German paternity on children without maternal consent. Blanche Sweet is the star, in a dual role.

TWO STARS ON BILL AT THE PERSHING

Frank Keenan in "The Master Man" and Constance Talmadge in "The Veiled Adventure" are the leading features of an unusually well-balanced bill at the Pershing. Keenan's offering is an unusually interesting drama of crooked politics, in which he has the role of a "boss," who is ruthless and unscrupulous in gaining his ends until, in a very unexpected way, a young woman is instrumental in making him see that he is not treading the paths of honor and that his ruthlessness sooner or later will react against him. The gradual regeneration of the "boss"

"THE THIRD DEGREE" IS A THRILLER

Methods Used by Police to Get Confessions are Basis of Plot.

The police "sweat-box," frequently referred to by counsel for the defense as the "torture chamber," where confessions are "wring from the lips" of prisoners is one of the most dramatic scenes in "The Third Degree," in which Alice Joyce is starring at the West End Lyric. Of course, for movie purposes, a bit of fiction is resorted to in this instance, but not much.

When Robert Underwood, presumably wealthy dealer in art work, is found dead in his apartment with a bullet wound in his head, murder is suspected, and the wayward son of a millionaire is charged with the crime. The fact that he was a visitor at the apartment when Underwood met his death, and that he had admitted having gone there to borrow money, makes a circumstantial case that convinces the police of his guilt.

After he has been dragged from a cell time and again and put through a grueling cross-examination, he is escorted to a dark room. The revolver with which Underwood was killed is brought out and placed on a table before the prisoner. A strong light is thrown upon the weapon and the reflection from the gleaming barrel rests on the prisoner's eyes.

He becomes hypnotized and confesses that he shot and killed his friend. His wife, who has been disowned by her aristocratic father-in-law and her husband's stepmother, is the only one who believes in the prisoner's innocence. She prevails upon an attorney to take up the case. The confession is repudiated and evidence is unearthed proving conclusively that Underwood was not murdered—but to tell the rest would be giving away a good plot, and that would not be fair.

Alice Joyce is at her best in this picture of the notable crime story of Charles Klein, and she is surrounded by a very capable company. There is not a dull moment in the whole production. A James Montgomery Flagg comic, "Welcome Little Stranger," a news pictorial and a good musical program round out an exceptionally good bill.

FLORENCE REED'S GOWNS A FEATURE OF "TODAY"

Liberty Has Good Headliner and Short Features.

In "Today," which opened at the Liberty yesterday, Florence Reed has a good medium for her talents. The story is based on one of Broadhurst's famous comedies. The wife of a wealthy man has always led a life of pampered happiness, and therefore she has not the philosophy or moral courage to make the best of a bad situation when he suddenly loses his wealth.

It is impossible for her to see how she is to get along without those luxuries which she has come to regard as necessities and she is sorely tempted to set aside moral considerations in devising schemes to prevent herself from being deprived of what she has learned to regard as "the good things of life."

This situation leads to a series of adventures in which at times she skates on very thin ice, but in the end her better nature triumphs. The film is of unusual interest to women, not only because of the problems it presents, but because of the bewitching array of gowns worn by the star.

On the bill also are "Virtuous Husbands," a Fox Sunshine comedy, the Liberty pictorial, a Mutt and Jeff cartoon comedy and a travel picture of Indian life.

An added feature beginning today is "Words and Music By—" with Albert Ray and Elinor Fair.

St. Louis Shipping Before the War—and Now

Prior to the war, during 1913, St. Louis' freight receipts and shipments totalled 54,600,000 tons. Last year (1918) the total was 72,400,000 tons, a gain of 17,800,000 tons, or nearly 33 per cent!

—From America at Work.

This can mean but one thing: St. Louis is growing! Growing as never before. A tremendous business expansion is beginning—has, in fact, already begun! Are your plans made to profit by this vast oncoming wave of commercial prosperity? Are your quarters ample, your capital sufficient, your system elastic enough? Are your banking facilities adequate to meet the unprecedented economic conditions just ahead?

Your banking, corporation, real estate, personal trust and foreign exchange requirements—all can be handled through our ten specialized departments, in a modernly efficient yet traditionally conservative manner. We aim to keep pace with present-day business changes, and have in our building every facility for the transaction of any financial business.

—the biggest and best purchase of this character we have ever made

—not a sweater worth less than $10 normally—more than half $12.95 or $15

Smart front buttoning and belted styles!

Many women have deferred the purchase of a Sweater because of the large expenditure normally entailed. To such, this will prove a welcome announcement. The styles are unusually distinctive, well made of fiber silk, which gives long wear and holds its shape—and they are indispensable for all sport occasions, that Decoration Day outing, motoring, cool evening wear, and any and all informal occasions.

CHARLES RAY A PITCHER IN HIS NEWEST COMEDY

"The Busher" Is Seasonable and Full of Youthful Fun.

Charles Ray has an appealing and amusing role in "The Busher," which opened the week at the Kings Theatre yesterday. First he is the star pitcher on a small-town baseball team and he has a big winning streak which attracts the attention of a big-league scout.

He is hired to play on a major-league team and his fortune seems assured, but when he gets to the city there are so many distractions, including a young woman, that he gets "rattled" and "goes to pieces" when he plays his first game, and he is unconditionally released.

He goes back to the small town and mopes, until he is induced to re-enter the baseball field of endeavor and the climax comes when he wins a most important game and a rich man's daughter simultaneously.

On the bill also are Peggy Hyland in "Miss Adventure" and several interesting short features.

Paper Mills Resume Work.
By the Associated Press.
GLENS FALLS, N. Y., May 26.—
Mills of the International Paper Co.

which have been closed since May 10 by a strike of the 5000 employees affiliated with the International Brotherhood of Pulp, Sulphite and Paper Mill Workers, resumed operations today.

Officials of the company have agreed to meet delegates from the locals Wednesday in New York for a conference on the wage question.

CLEMENCEAU-RANTZAU NOTES MADE PUBLIC

Correspondence Over Saar Coal Basin Settlement Given Out at Washington.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, May 26.—The State Department last night made public the text of notes exchanged by Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German peace delegation, and M. Clemenceau, president of the peace conference, relative to final determination of the Saar basin and the disposition of its coal products.

The Saar basin question was first touched on in a note by the German delegation on general boundary matters dated May 13, and later was made the subject of a distinct communication under date of May 16. The reply to both notes was handed to the Germans Saturday.

The text of notes shows that the suggestions of the German delegation that viva voce discussion of questions as to the amount of coal to be supplied France and Belgium and the transportation of such supplies, that the concerns damaged in Northern France participate "by shares to an extent agreed upon in such German coal mines as are charged with the delivery of coal to the regions" decided upon, and that in lieu of actual control by the associated Powers a system of economic guarantees be instituted, all were summarily rejected by the associated nations in their reply.

Suggested Rationing of Coal.
To the proposal that shares in the Saar mines be issued to damaged French concerns, the reply asserts that such shares "situated in German territory and subject to German exploitation would be of doubtful value to French holders and would create a confusion of French and German interests."

The most surprising of the propositions put forward by Count Brockdorff-Rantzau in regard to the Saar basin is based on an expressed fear that the surplus of coal over and above the home requirements would not suffice for the quantities which the treaty of peace has fixed and the suggestion is made that the consumption of coal in Germany, France and Belgium be rationed in due proportion.

M. Clemenceau in reply states: "That no arrangement of the kind put forward could give to France the security and certainty which she would receive from the full exploitation and free ownership of the mines of the Saar."

The only real concession made to the Germans is to allow the apprehension expressed by Count Brockdorff-Rantzau as to Germany's ability to effect the payment in gold agreed upon.

The concession as made in the reply of the associated governments is for the substitution of the following for the present clause governing such payments in the treaty:

"The obligation of Germany to make such payment shall be taken into account by the Reparation Commission, and for the purpose of this payment, Germany may create a prior charge upon her assets or revenues upon such detailed terms as shall be agreed to by the Reparation Commission."

"If, nevertheless, Germany, after a period of one year from the date of which the payment becomes due, shall not have effected the said payment, the Reparation Commission shall do so in accordance with such instructions as may be given by the league of nations, and, if necessary, by liquidation of that portion of the mines which is in question."

Declaration by Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau that the German population should be bartered about from sovereignty to sovereignty as if they were mere chattels and pawns in a game, has been met by Premier Clemenceau speaking for the associated Powers, with the statement that in no case would self-determination of peoples be denied under the peace treaty.

The declaration of the head of the German delegations was embodied in a note addressed to the associated governments as represented at the Versailles conference on May 13 and made public at the State Department along with the reply of the latter under the signature of M. Clemenceau.

The German delegates in their note objected specifically to the surrender under the peace treaty in Silesia, Pomerania, West and East Prussia and the Saar basin, the demand for all of which the German note asserts, is "obviously inconsistent" with the "principles upon which the armistice and the negotiations for peace were proposed," because of the German population of the districts. Count Brockdorff-Rantzau further charges the associated governments with the "bartering of territories" for the purpose of "giving guarantees for financial or economic claims of the adversaries of Germany."

Clemenceau Denies Charge.
In replying to the German note, M. Clemenceau said: "I must emphatically deny on behalf of the allied and associated governments the suggestion contained in it (the German note) that German territories are by the treaty of peace made the subject of bargains between one sovereignty and another as though they were mere chattels and pawns in a game. In fact, the wishes of the population of all the territories in question will be consulted and the procedure followed, if such consultation has been carefully settled with special regard to local conditions." Omitting to take up the question of the restitution of Alsace-Lorraine and the occupation of Kiel, Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau said he would discuss these provisions of the treaty in a subsequent note.

With respect to some of the territory which Germany is required to cede, including a part of that given to Poland and also Schleswig, Von Brockdorff-Rantzau admitted that "the principle of national self-determination may indeed be assured." Clemenceau's reply dealt specifically with provisions which have been drawn up for the administration of the Saar basin under the league of nations as affecting the political rights of its population.

These provisions, he said, secure the rights and welfare of the population, assure the "maintenance of all their present liberties" and in addition "guarantee to them in financial and social matters a number of special advantages." The provision for a plebiscite at the end of 15 years, he said, will enable this population to determine the final form of government of the territory in which it lives "in full freedom and not necessarily to the advantage either of France or Germany."

Replying to an objection in the German note against the disposition of Schleswig in the peace treaty because of Denmark's neutrality, Clemenceau informed the German delegation that this provision was inserted in the treaty at the request of the Danish Government and the population of Schleswig.

THE Standard Oil Company (Indiana), as a public servant, interprets its obligation to the 2,000,000 motorists in the territory it serves as reaching beyond simply supplying them with gasoline and lubricating oils.

The Company feels that it falls short of its full duty, if in the manufacture of gasoline and lubricating oils the elements of economy, efficiency, dependability, and protection are not inherent in every gallon.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) requires of its products, that, in addition to furnishing dependable power and lubrication the investment of the motorist must be protected—his repair bills must be minimized—the life of the car must be prolonged.

Every frictional surface must be preserved. The engine must respond instantly in emergencies. The motorist must get every possible mile out of every gallon of Standard gasoline which he buys.

AT CHURCHES FOR SOLDIER DEAD

Annual Observance Takes on a Wider Scope Than in Former Years Here.

The services in churches, which are held annually on the Sundays preceding Memorial day, and which originally were in honor of those who fell on the side of the Union, yesterday in St. Louis became more general in scope, and included those who died in the Civil War, both on the side of the North and South, in the Spanish War and in the recent great war.

The principal service was in St. Margaret's church, at the corner of Ransom Post, G. A. R. and five camps of Spanish-American veterans united in their service. The services at Lafayette Park Methodist church were for "all heroes of all wars."

Catholic churches will have special masses marking Memorial day next Friday and Protestant churches will hold exercises on that day.

11 OPEN AIR SCHOOL PUPILS ABLE TO RESUME REGULAR WORK

Children All Have Gained Weight, One Having Added More Than 23 Pounds.

Eleven of the 15 little girls who were the pupils of the first resident open-air school ever established will leave the school this week and their places will be taken by new pupils. The school is the experimental institution opened at 9500 South Broadway in December by the St. Louis Tuberculosis Society and the Board of Education, and has proved such a success that it is to be made a permanent school, according to Mrs. Ernst Jonas, chairman of the Open-Air School Committee of the Tuberculosis Society.

A building is to be erected on the grounds of the Night and Day Camp, and until that is completed the school will be housed in a big tent on the lawn.

The children leaving the school are strong and hearty and able to go back to regular school work like other children. All have gained in weight, one having added 23 pounds 11 ounces to her weight.

The school has been crowded out of the Night and Day Camp and for a time it was thought it would have to be closed permanently for lack of housing facilities. The Tuberculosis Society maintains the school at a cost of $2.10 per day per child, and the Board of Education provides instruction and schoolroom equipment.

250 PERSONS TAKE PART IN MISSIONARY PAGEANT AT ODEON

Golden Jubilee of Sunday School Host of the Missouri Episcopal Diocese Celebrated.

The golden jubilee of the Sunday School Missionary Host of Missouri, an organization of the youth of the Episcopal diocese of Missouri, was celebrated yesterday afternoon at the Odeon. A missionary pageant, "The Light of the World," was presented by 250 persons, representing 20 Sunday Schools.

The retirement of Frank Wyman, treasurer for 23 years, was announced. His work was the subject of a tribute by Bishop Tuttle, who also presented E. C. Simmons, one of the two founders of the Host, with a written testimonial. The other founder was the late Wallace Delafield.

The pageant, as presented, was written by Mrs. E. F. Cushing of Webster Groves. The leading characters were: The Church of Jerusalem, Mrs. F. H. Von Wiedegger; Greece, Mrs. Willard Bartlett; Armenia, Miss Mary Franklin; Rome, Mrs. William Smith; Gaul, Mrs. Thos. Q. Dix; Britain, Mrs. H. W. ### GOVERNMENT-BUILT CITY FOR NEGROES OPENED IN VIRGINIA

By the Associated Press. PORTSMOUTH, Va., May 26.—A model city constructed by the Government exclusively for negroes was formally opened with ceremonies today and Truxton, Va., as the new town is known, took its place on the map as a suburb of this city.

Built primarily for war purposes to house employees at the great Hampton Roads naval base, the 224 buildings in the little town will not be sold immediately by the Government but will be rented at $16 to $19 monthly. The town is one of the 24 housing projects the United States Housing Corporation is rapidly completing throughout the country for the Government. All of these projects represent a returnable value of more than $25,000,000 and consist of a total of 6000 houses and house apartments, which by the end of June will be returning $2,500,000 per year in rentals to the Government. Final disposition of the property rests with Congress.

Truxton covers 90 acres and contains six store buildings, which it is proposed to operate under a stock company formed by the tenants. Industrial concerns throughout the country are watching the experiment with a view to similar provisions for housing negro workers.

PROBATIONARY KELLY GETS EVIDENCE FOR THREE RAIDS

John P. Kelly, a probationary patrolman who has been working for three weeks with the gambling squad, obtaining evidence on which raids have been made, collected the evidence against three saloonkeepers who were charged with tilting the lid yesterday. The gambling squad made the raids after Kelly reported buying beer in the places.

At the saloon of Henry Kulage, 3949 Kossuth avenue, policemen arrested the bartender, Albert Georger, 3907 Kossuth avenue. Lieut. Stinger, who was in charge of the raid, confiscated $61.75 in the cash register and ordered the money held as "evidence." Twelve men were reported in the saloon. Kelly reported he bought two bottles of beer, drank one and saved the other.

At the saloon of Joseph Fogarty, 3109 Rutger street, policemen said they found Thomas Hayes, a machinist, 2104 Rutger street, tending bar. Hayes was arrested.

The saloon of Nick Tock, 4914 Natural Bridge avenue, was raided and Tock and his bartender, David Lecky, arrested.

THE POST-DISPATCH PLATFORM

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles, that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news, always be drastically independent, never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

From Eighty-Eighth and Eighty-Ninth Division Boys.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am writing a few lines to the public of our home State to tell them about the boys from there that are in the Eighty-eighth Division over in France, and to give the Eighty-ninth Division boys also a lot of warm welcome for what they did in the battles over here for their country. Also our boys of the Eighty-eighth; they are good, true St. Louis and Missouri boys in both of the divisions. So I think the people of their home State ought to get together and give the boys that are over here on their homecoming a patriotic welcome and a nice little bonus also. Other states are doing a lot for their boys when they come home, so we all hope that our folks will do the same when we arrive.

We were on the Alsace-Lorraine front for about eight days. They put over a few barbed wire on us; we lost quite a few men; some were gassed, also; and from there we were to go to the Metz front, but in the meantime the armistice was signed, so we never got there, but the boys were ready for action at all times. The people ought to realize what their boys went through over here for their country, and they are ready to serve Uncle Sam any time. So I wish you would kindly publish this letter in your paper so that the people can realize the fact to all they can for the boys, especially the business men of the State; get them together with their helping hand; they can do a lot of good for the boys on their homecoming, which I think will be in a short period of time. It sure puts lots of joy in the boys to get the St. Louis paper and hear the news from over there, and our best regards and thanks to the paper, which we all appreciated very much at all times; that is my favorite paper when at home in St. Louis, Mo.

Tell the folks the boys are all well and happy, and hope to be with them in a few days. I must close this sincere letter and hope to see it in the next copy I get from home, so three cheers for the St. Louis Post-Dispatch from the boys over here, and wish it a great success. So good-by and good luck to all from the boys of the Eighty-ninth and the Eighty-eighth Divisions of Missouri. We remain, yours truly,

Is This a Plot?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I would like to call the public's attention to a gross injustice that is being perpetrated in the West End residence districts. It seems that bums, dope fiends and people of unsound mind have been brought out here and have been paid to go in and disgrace the saloon man as much as he could, saying prohibition promoters had sent him there.

None of the above-mentioned bums, etc., have been able to secure a drink or drinks at any of the places visited, but were put out as soon as they got in. They are a class of people that drink has not created, but some of them should be locked up or sent to an asylum of some kind, instead of being allowed to mingle among decent people. I have been in the saloon business for 25 years and never have I had to contend with such cases as these before. If the statement made by them about being sent out here is correct, I don't think it is going to help the cause of prohibition, because that class of people have never been here before.

JOHN A. BARRIERI, 4902 Delmar.

Mr. Bryan's Insincerity.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I wish I could shake your hand in sincere congratulation for your editorial on Mr. Bryan's insincerity, in his interviews and speeches he made while in the city recently, and also for the stamp you have placed upon him, as a cheap and false trickster, as by doing so you have put all of him, and all there is to him, in a nutshell. He has never been anything else in his entire public career, and in all his doings.

When we go back to his first slip into Congress by the Populists, and his desertion of them for something more exciting, and right down to this present day, we can see nothing better of him but a false trickster, so that even his big, long tongue did not bring us any better picture of him than the tongue of a parrot.

It was an unfortunate day for the people when the Democratic party picked him up, and tried to make a Moses of him, but we all know, and sorrowfully remember, what he has proved himself to be—a white elephant on their necks.

Thank Heaven, the Democratic party, after severe punishment, tore loose from him.

HENRY J. WILKINSON.

THE GREAT CRIME.

What a malevolent person President Wilson is! Under the pretense of attempting to close the greatest war in history with enduring peace on a basis of justice and liberty for all peoples and to form a league of nations to guarantee peace on that basis, he is engaging in a diabolical plot to perpetuate war and to bring ruin upon his own country! He is engaged in the deliberate effort through this specious scheme to undermine the sovereignty of the United States and destroy the liberties of the American people.

What a terrible thing a league of nations organized to guarantee peace is! It is a monstrous plot of a pack of human wolves, drunk with the blood of millions of men and reveling in the devastation of war and the unmeasured sufferings of mankind and thirsting for more blood and spoils, to keep the world at war.

What an awful crime it is to attempt to keep faith with other nations and to accomplish the ends of justice and liberty for which a great, free people has gone into war!

Wise men know that benevolent war aims designed to end wars and destroy militarism and establish justice between peoples and assure liberty to weak nations are mere scraps of paper after the war has been brought to a victorious finish.

Wise men know that after a strong nation has organized all its resources to end a world war and has united all of its allies on pledges to maintain righteousness and a just peace, the thing to do is for that strong nation to pull out and not bother about peace settlements and international agreements to maintain peace; the thing to do is quit, cast aside its aims, pledges and obligations, let the weaker peoples go to the demitition how-ows and reserve its strength for another war.

A great republic can make war; it can concentrate all its resources of men, money and material for war purposes; it can make war agreements; it can do all of these things without endangering a stone in the temple of liberty. But it is dangerous to fool with peace agreements or guarantees to maintain just peace—that is dynamite which menaces the entire structure of liberty.

We are forced to these conclusions by the initial outbreak of the Republican, Progressive reactionary United States Senators on the League of Nations. Senator Sherman, the jealous custodian of American liberty; Senator Johnson, keeper of the mantle of Roosevelt; Senator Lodge, Brahminical High Priest who guards the altar of American sovereignty; Senator Borah, embodiment of the spirit of American progress, and Senator Reed—Dark Lantern Jim—night watchman of the Temple—all see visions of horrid happenings that will follow the consummation of the Wilson peace plans and shriek in protest against his masked attack, under the guise of a peacemaker, upon all that Americans hold dear.

Mankind's dream of a reign of justice and peace through international co-operation is a nightmare. The hopes of men must rest upon engines of destruction and spoliation.

THE WORLD'S TWO NEW HEROES

The curtain, which descended somberly with premonitions of disaster on one of the greatest of the stories of fortitude and adventure, goes up again to disclose the safety of its two figures, whom the world had come to regard with so much of sympathy and admiration. Compelled to alight in midocean, far out of the usual path of ships, Aviators Harry G. Hawker and Mackenzie Grieve were picked up by a small Danish vessel. After days, not of suspense, for the conviction as to their death was irresistible, but of many regrets, they are unexpectedly restored to life and to the list of heroes who have passed unscathed through endeavors so perilous as to center the attention of millions.

The ocean is kind to those who disappear beyond its curve in ships of the air. Of almost a score who essayed the Azores under the American flag every one was preserved through almost unexampled dangers. Hawker and Grieve, for whose safety no special provision was made, were snatched from the very clutch of death. England, which passed a week bewailing its own neglect, will have a chance to make up for former indifference. A little hero worship will be excusable in that country during the next few days.

THAT REPUBLICAN FILIBUSTER

Because of the disgraceful filibuster in the closing days of the last session of Congress the Government has defaulted in payments promised and owing to the families of our soldiers. Hundreds of thousands of homes all over the land, which had counted on those allotments, have suffered hardships and humiliations. Republican leaders are now trying to shift the blame for this infamous betrayal of the soldiers and their families to the President. They say the President could have nullified the filibuster and its consequences by calling an extra session of Congress immediately upon the expiration of the last session.

It is a sniveling plea. As everybody knows, the filibuster was an assault upon the President. Its object was to harass and embarrass the President, to make it impossible for him to return to the Peace Conference by compelling him to convene Congress at once in extraordinary session. For that the filibuster was wantonly planned.

The Republican party, as represented in Congress, is solely responsible for the filibuster. Since guilt is personal the responsibility may first of all be charged to Senator Lodge. It is true that Senator Lodge lost his nerve at the last and attempted to call off the obstructionists, but he recanted too late. The rankerous Sherman and malevolent La Follette had gotten completely out of hand. They gabbled endlessly, defiant of the nation's requirements and obligations.

THE BEER INJUNCTION

The temporary injunction restraining Government officials from interfering with the manufacture of beer containing 2.3-4 per cent alcohol is a prelude to troubled days and anxious nights for the prohibitionists. Various reasons were given by the court for its action, but the unanswerable contention was that a beer of such alcoholic content is not intoxicating. Impressive authorities were quoted in support of that claim.

The same claim can be made for an infinite variety of drinks, extant or destined to be evolved. The theme invites speculation. What of the States from which booze in all its manifestations has been excommunicated theoretically? Will the serpent re-enter such ancient Edens as Maine and Kansas? Will it wriggle back into the lately converted Southland? Will folks who—in the propaganda of prohibition—have found the exhilaration of the soda fountain sufficient, be privileged again to rest a foot on a brass rail and partake of potatoes that look too guilty to be wholly innocent?

It is a disquieting questionaire which confronts the regulators of other people's habits. The ungodly may well wonder if they haven't overreached themselves. Well, that is the inevitable finish of intolerance, anyhow. It always kills itself.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE ON LABOR.

From the Philadelphia Ledger.

IN the very vestibule stands Labor. This is typical of the world situation. As khaki fades from the scene the overalls appear. Even in this message one of the President's most poignant appeals is for practical assistance to our brave boys in getting out of khaki and into the varied uniforms of production. It was with a Labor proposition that the German delegates to Versailles made their most serious attempt to break the front of the allied peace proposals. The appeal to Labor is felt today by the statesmen of all countries to be their "trump card." Upon the sanity of Labor the world depends chiefly to check the spread of the virulent infection of bolshevism.

There is nothing especially new in the President's suggestion for Labor legislation. In fact, he emphasizes the futility of legislation as a cure-all, and appeals with more confidence to the creation of a healing spirit of conciliation and co-operation between the three great factors of production—Labor, Capital and the managerial faculty. The latter might have been written "brains." That is the element that the Bolshevik first discovered to be irreplaceably essential to the success of industry.

The President proposes partnership to replace antagonism. Indisputable; but it is like proposing the "golden rule." We are all in favor of it, but it seems difficult to get it universally applied. He also proposes "the genuine democratization of industry," looking to some measure of control by "those who work in whatever rank." This is a version of the Rockefeller scheme. Its perils are obvious. Joint control of industry in so far as it affects the welfare of the worker is all right, quite feasible and no more than just. But joint control of the policy of an industry would be very like joint control by men of all ranks of the strategy of an army. Armies win battles because of the capacity of their commanders. The difference between the success of one industry and the failure of a similar industry is very often only the difference between the capacity for leadership born or trained into their respective dominating minds. Labor could make no greater mistake than to insist upon interfering with "the man at the wheel." And the man at the wheel will make an irreparable fatal mistake if he does not see that Labor gets the lion's share of the profits on the joint production.

Well-laid industry can outbid "bolshevism" ten times over for the support of Labor because it earns many "ten times" more. But it must faithfully deliver the price which is to do the "outbidding" if it is to keep permanently bolshevism at bay.

OUR HOMESICK SOLDIERS.

Evidently Job was never put to it as our homesick boys in Europe are. The following contribution from the Army of Occupation is typical. We get a lot of them:

I'll drop in on you some night. With my whiskers long and white. Yes, the war is over, dear; And we're going home, I hear.

Home again with you once more— Say, by nineteen twenty-four. Once I thought by now I'd be Sailing back across the sea.

Back to where you sit and pine. But I'm stuck here on the Rhine. You can hear the gang all curse: "War is hell, but peace is worse."

When the next war comes around, In the front line I'll be found. I'll rush in again pell-mell— Yes, I will—like a, like a—

BUGLER WILLIAM W. BEHRE, Karlsruhe, Germany. 115th Engineers.

It is claimed for the new 24 per cent beer that it must be nonintoxicating, since a man drinking 10 steins of it at a New Jersey dinner subsequently made an attempt to make a speech. However, we are afraid that to make this point stick it will be necessary to find a Court familiar with the custom of serving beer at banquets. We never heard of it, but our banqueting is limited.

H. G. Wells, John Masefield, Jerome K. Jerome and others want the peace reconsidered upon the basis of the 14 points. Naturally, these gentlemen want poetic justice, which has not yet been found practicable in a prosaic world. Their cue, as we see it, is to make this a poetic world.

What's getting the matter? We gave the NC-3 up. We gave Hawker up. Has the Republican propaganda against Mr. Wilson, the league of nations, peace or hope—of anything—gotten our goat?

Nothing much has happened the Kaiser as yet, but he is happily located where he can easily knock wood.

"How fast do you drive?" "I don't know. I never hit anything and heard testimony on the subject."

Secretary Baker will answer the charges of Gov. Allen. Please omit flowers.

"Does he live in the country?" "No, I think he is a taxpayer."

Will Germany sign, or must we send Sergt. York over again?

The Germans appear to be more interested in a league of nations.

The wagon of a colored business man bears this one:

Halls of All Nations.

BOLSHEVISM IN CHINA.

It will encourage everybody who hasn't a buzzing sound in the ears to hear that Bolshevism has invaded China from Siberia. Inasmuch as China is always absorbed by that country and no more is heard of us, we are given by this news quite a clear view of Bolshevism's finish. Most absurd theories of what should be done in the world eventually get to China and there disappear. It is a process which has been going on for thousands of years. We do not know much about China more than a few thousand years back, but the probability is that she has performed that good office for the rest of the world ever since the need for having a blotter of this sort has existed. There is no greater or more venerable comedy in the world than this peculiar relation of China to the rest of the sphere, and it has been cleverly captured for us by Nicholas Vachel Lindsay, in "The Empire of China is Falling Down." The empire of China has been falling down for centuries without number. It has been doomed dozens of times, just as it is doomed in this instance by Bolshevism. Yet, strangely enough, it is the same forever and ever—and in this case, amen!

PROEM.

MONUMENT—said Horace of his pages—

More durable than brass;

Which rain nor wind can waste, nor flight of ages;

I shall not wholly pass.

And Shakespeare positively knew that never

Would he succumb to time;

That no memorial of man could ever Outlive his "powerful rhyme."

Our Lowell called his earlier effusions, With charming diffidence,

Poor "windfalls" from life's tree, wormy delusions,

"Unripe experience."

And Doctor Holmes, the comic-serious fellow,

Foresees the poet's doom:

His soul in leather shroud—his pages yellow—

Lying in alcoved tomb

Ah yes, too true his utterance prophetic!

Where are the scores on scores Of rose visions of the soul poetic? Buried in old bookstores.

Ma, too, Oblivion with its dust will cover.

And yet I speculate

On what will be when life's mad race is over—

For my poor songs what fate?

Some heart, methinks, will feel mine own heart beating

Across the void of time;

Some loveborn girl perchance will be repeating

These passion-heads of rhyme.

Germany Was Sure Winner Until Americans Came In, Says Ludendorff

Declares British and French Were Worn Out—Aug. 8 Revealed to Him That German Troops' Morale Was Low.

The Post-Dispatch prints below the conclusion of its remarkable exclusive interview with Field Marshal Ludendorff. The first part was published yesterday. In it the defeated German Generalissimo gave his view of the peace treaty. He declared it represented defeat for the ideals of President Wilson and success of French revenge, and that the terms were so severe that they could not be carried out. He said an attempt to punish the ex-Kaiser would be monstrous, since responsibility lay with the Chancellor in civil affairs and the high command in military affairs, but he himself was ready to stand trial before a military tribunal for his acts.

By CYRIL BROWN.
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

BERLIN, May 25.—America won the war, according to Field Marshal Ludendorff, who expressed his authoritative opinion very explicitly to me as follows:

"France and England would have been beaten in 1918 but for America."

Gen. Ludendorff's keen, logical analysis led to the laconic statement that "America proved to be the decisive military factor of the war. The American reserves swung the decision. They alone made it possible to pull the worn-out French and British divisions out of the line and to reorganize the ever-fresh offensive armies."

The loss of the war seemed a sensitive sore subject about which to question Ludendorff, but he stood the brief probe without betraying a quiver of emotion. His attitude toward life appears to be to stand up and talk of the past with stoic dignity, as becomes an old soldier.

Would Not Withhold Verdict. I gathered the distinct impression that Ludendorff has no special love for America or Americans, but, on the other hand, is honest enough not to affect a false affection, preferring to regard America as a worthy foe unfortunately encountered on the battlefield.

"I have no reason for wanting to flatter Americans," he said to me, "and neither have I any reason for withholding my just verdict either. Bitter as the realization may be to him personally, he sees that Germany's sole salvation perhaps lies in regaining the friendship, and in not regarding the enmity of America. It is my wish that the two countries may find each other again," Ludendorff said.

It is understood that he deals exhaustively with America's part in the war in his forthcoming book, but he said in response to questions: "I won't say a word about my book. I don't want it to appear that I am trying to advertise it."

Of the American army he said briefly: "The soldiers were good. Their training, however, was not up to world war standards."

What Ludendorff considered shortcomings of training, due to a short time in which the Americans had to train, really made no difference. He, however, were trained quite enough to win the war, because they arrived in time and in sufficient numbers.

Ludendorff does not hold that the war was won and lost at the Marne, and his view of the second battle of the Marne will come as a surprise to most American readers. He said: "Fighting in the Marne was in the nature of purely local engagements."

He regards the Argonne-Meuse offensive as the American army's greatest performance in actual fighting.

"The Argonne-Meuse offensive was very uncomfortable to me," he said with a slight smile.

Why Aug. 8 Was Decisive. I said I had never understood just why the German specialists kept harping on Aug. 8 as the decisive day on which the war was lost, or according to other popular version, the day on which the German highest leadership gave up the war for lost, or no longer possible to win.

"Foch is of the same opinion as I am," was Ludendorff's reply. Aug. 8 was the first day of the Franco-British offensive at Amiens. Nothing much happened on the day. Concretely, the break through the line was not very wide nor extraordinarily deep.

Then Ludendorff, in one illuminating flash, explained why Aug. 8 was the decisive day for him, although nothing much happened.

"It was the case with which the enemy broke through our line on that day," he said.

Ludendorff didn't say so in so many words, but I gathered that Aug. 8 brought the revelation that the morale of Germany's first line troops had sunk so low that Ludendorff knew by intuition they could not hold longer against attacks which normally would have been relatively easy to oppose.

Knew Attacks Would Not Cease. Ludendorff said he could not see against the fatherland by discussing the depreciation of the front line troops with an American. He did say:

"From the ease with which the front line was breached on Aug. 8, my intuition as a soldier told me that the enemy would keep up the attacks incessantly, uninterruptedly, day after day from then on."

He is content to leave his military stature to the verdict of history. His last words to me were:

"I did what I did for what I believed were the highest and best interests of my fatherland."

Ludendorff lives the simple, retired life of a pensioned officer. He is at home every evening, spending much of his time at his desk writing. He occupies the apartment of friends on the first floor in Victoriastrasse of the Tiergarten, and said that he made the transmission from the highest military leadership to civilian life very easily. He does not expect to visit America.

Graves of 70,000 Americans to be Decorated in France.

Perishing Bulletin States That All U. S. Soldiers There Shall Take Part in Today's Memorial Services.

By the Associated Press.
LYONS, France, May 25.—The graves of 70,000 American soldiers who died in France will be decorated next Friday under the auspices of the forces of the United States still in France.

Gen. Pershing issued a bulletin stating that all American soldiers shall participate in the Memorial day exercises. President Wilson will speak at the services in the American cemetery at Suresnes, near Paris, where the American War Office will preside over the exercises.

CUMMINGS TO TOUR WEST IN INTEREST OF 1920 CAMPAIGN

Democratic Chairman and Party Will Make First Stop at St. Louis.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 26.—Plans of organization for the 1920 campaign will be communicated to Democratic leaders in the state between the Mississippi River and the Pacific coast by Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, during tours of that section next month and in July. The itinerary of the tours, which will start immediately after the meeting of the Democratic National Committee at Chicago Wednesday and Thursday, was made public last night at the party headquarters here.

The first stop of Chairman Cummings and his party, which will include J. Bruce Kremer of Montana, vice chairman; Mrs. George B. Hanna, chairman of the Woman's Bureau; W. R. Hollister, executive secretary; and W. D. Jamieson, director of finance, will be made at St. Louis May 30 and 31. State conferences then will be held as follows: Wichita, Kan., June 2; Albuquerque, N. M., June 4-5; Denver, Colo., dates not selected; Salt Lake City, Utah, June 12-13; Los Angeles (Southern California), June 18-20; Phoenix, Ariz., dates not selected; Portland, Ore., June 30 and July 1; Seattle and Tacoma, Wash., July 2-4; Spokane, Idaho, July 5-7; Boise, Idaho, July 9-10; Pocatello, Idaho, July 11; Helena, Mont., July 12; Butte, Mont., July 13, and Billings, Mont., July 16. Conferences later will be held at Cheyenne, Wyo., and Omaha.

ITALIAN POET-AVIATOR RESIGNS

Gabriele d'Annunzio Gives Up His Post in Army.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, May 26.—Gabriele d'Annunzio, the poet-aviator, resigned his post as Lieutenant-Colonel in the Italian army after the Generalissimo's command of the flying corps. He ordered his immediate return to camp. D'Annunzio, who was a veteran, exercised his right in asking to be retired, saying that he considered the order from the Generalissimo of political nature rather than military.

The Argonne-Meuse offensive was unfathomable to me," he said

Why Aug. 8 Was Decisive.
said I had never understood just the German specialists keep ing on Aug. 8 as the decisive on which the war was lost, or ording to another popular verthe day on which the German test leadership gave up the war lost, or no longer possible to Each is of the same opinion as me," was Ludendorff's reply. Aug.

was the first day of the Franco-ish offensive at Amiens. North-much happened on the day.
cretely, the break through the
was not very wide nor extraordinary deep.

Then Ludendorff, in one illuminat-flash, explained why Aug. 8 was decisive day for him, although happening much later.

"It was the ease with which the my broke through our line on day," he said.

Ludendorff didn't say so in so ny words, but he gathered that e brought the revelation that the morale of Germany's first line ops had sunk so low that Luden-knew by intuition they could hold longer against attacks ich normally would have been actively easy to oppose.

Knew Attacks Would Not Cease.
Ludendorff said he could not sintinet the fatherland by discussing a depreciation of the front line ops with an American. He did not.

"From the ease with which the ent line was breached on Aug. 8, intuition as a soldier told me
the enemy would keep up the acks incessantly, uninterruptedly, y after day from then on."

He is content to leave his military ature to the verdict of history. His at words to me were:

"I did what I did for what I be-ieved were the highest and best interests of my fatherland."

Ludendorff lives the simple, reated life of a pensioned officer. He at home every evening, spending uch of his time at his desk writ-
g. He occupies the apartment of ends on the first floor in Victoria
rassé of the Tiergarten, and said that he made the transmission from e highest military leadership to villian life very easily. He does ot expect to visit America.

Fashions at the Capital

The Well-Dressed Woman of Smart Society—What She Wears, the Time and the Place.

By Margaret Wade.

WASHINGTON, May 24.
ON an afternoon occasion at a fashionable club in Washington
recently, the style of dress ranged from flowered muslin of real garden party effect to the most pronounced of sport skirts and gold pocket, which is a sweater by another name.

The favorite dress on these outdoor occasions is, however, a tailored suit, which may be cloth, silk or cotton, according to the taste and purse of the wearer, also according to the weather, the latter a very uncertain factor in Washington.

The same unwritten rule appears to hold at the capital. Mrs. Marshall, who is a frequent visitor to the Senate gallery, is wearing one of the well-cut coat suits for which she is noted, or on a warm day a dark-toned foulard in a smartly draped
but not elaborate model. The latter is worn with a becoming broadrimmed black hat, the former with a tote matching the suit in color.

MRS. STEPHEN B. ELKINS.
On Monday saw her son sworn in for the second time
as a Senator from West Virginia, wore a black coat suit with collar and cuffs of white satin, the edges of both being scalloped and buttoned, quite like the old-fashioned muslin collars of our grandmothers'
time.

Mrs. Elkins naturally was the subject of many congratulations, as the new Senator. Her daughter Elkins, is succeeding not only his father,
his maternal grandfather as a Senator from West Virginia.

Mrs. Francis E. Warren, wife of the Senator from Wyoming, is one of those wise women who never sacrifices the becoming to an arbitrary decree of fashion, and consequently looks youthful and handsome as she sports her white sport skirt and pink sweater with a broad-brimmed Milan encircled by a very rich plume of dull crimson which emphasized in a remarkable way Mrs. Warren's blond beauty even in the sunshine of a bright afternoon.

MRS. STEPHEN ROWAN and Mrs. Gilbert Rowcliffe, two of the youngest matrons of the city, wherein each was a reigning belle a few years ago, are excellent examples of present-day fashions.

Mrs. Rowan, who was Henrietta
Fitch, youngest daughter of the late Chief Engineer Henry W. Fitch, U. S. N., has gained in dignity without losing any of her achievement, charm, looked particularly smart one afternoon last week in a gown of Dresden taffeta with a background of black figures of pink and green
in large size, and a wide outline.
With this was worn a medium-size
all-black hat of fine straw, trimmed entirely in satin ribbon.

Mrs. Rowcliffe, who was Marion Leahy, only daughter of Rear Admiral H. C. Leutze, U. S. N., is wearing one of the smartest of semi-sport suits, a skirt of white and black in broken bars, with short black velvet jacket and small black hat.

All black gown modish to the last degree and so light of texture
that it might be the envy of any woman detained in Washington last summer, was worn by Mrs. James H. Mann at one of the several social dinners in a fashionable hotel marking Horse Show week and the return of Congress.

The foundation slip is of taffeta,
with the drapery one of the newest of French lace, a variation of old-time Chantilly, but much finer in mesh and pattern.

This is apparently very deep fencing, which is applied diagonally on the skirt, leaving exposed the

LITTLE JOURNEYS IN THE GARDEN

GARDEN insects and diseases gain the greatest headway and give most trouble in neglected gardens. Keep the garden clean and free from weeds and save trouble.

Few people realize the value of birds in keeping garden insects under control. Even the despised English sparrow sometimes makes a mistake and eats a worm.

The common toad is the gardener's friend, because he lives upon the small insects that trouble the garden crops. Few roads in the garden will help keep it free of insects.

The common cutworm is a cowardly rascal and rarely does his work
in daylight when folks can see him.
He watches and waits until the gardener has planted his cabbage, tomato or pepper plants, then sneaks out in the night and destroys the plants.

"Let the mole do the work and get the blame," says the planter, as he scurries through a mole-male tunnel to a hill of juicy potatoes, where he eats a self-service meal. And at that, pine mice are not inherently evil. These pests of the gardener, orchardist and farmer are crafty.
Moles burrow tunnels in their search after grubs, insects and worms, and officiate as plain-clothes men in ridding the soil of rascally insects. Pine mice tag after the moles and destroy the vegetables and root crops which the moles free of insects.

Many years ago, when the common potato beetle, then known as the Colorado beetle, first became fashionable in potato patches and gardens, numerous remedies were offered. One man advertised a sure remedy for potato beetles which would be sent perpaid for the sum of $1. Thousands of credulous gardeners sent their dollars, and when the sure-cure came it consisted of two square blocks of wood, and printed on the side of one block were the following instructions:
"Place the potato block on the other block and crush him with the other block. The cure is certain."

Watch constantly for the first appearance of disease or insect. Inspect the garden at least every other day. Determine what is causing injury and apply the proper treatment promptly. Use the combination treatments in case a complication of troubles is present. Repeat treatments as often as necessary, keeping in mind the influence of weather conditions as well as the life history of the insect or fungus causing the disease.

Control of insects and diseases affecting garden crops has been made so simple that it is little trouble nowadays to apply the remedies. It is not necessary to have a lot of expensive apparatus. A cheap hand sprayer, or a sprinkling can may be used to apply all of the remedies that are used in liquid form. Poisons in the dry or powdered form can be applied by means of a chamois cloth or gully sack. The entire cost for equipment with which to fight the common garden insects and diseases need not be more than a dollar.

It is said that some London shops spend anywhere from $2500 to $5000 a year on the cleaning of their banks and windows. A few firms keep their own staffs for the work, but the majority have it done by contract.

last degree and so light of texture
that it might be the envy of any

being carried on among the school children of America.
Soon after the School Garden
Army was organized it became evident that it had the elements of permanence because it fitted in so well with school conditions in practically all the States. The response to the idea it represented was instant and nation-wide. The demand for the continuance of the organization has been insistent and well-nigh universal.

"A Garden for Every Child and Every Child in a Garden" is the slogan of the big campaign. Director J. H. Francis and his associates, who have provided these messages to the teachers and children of America, urge immediate enlistment in this service.

It is evident that school-supervised gardening has already become an integral part of the school curriculum in most of the States. The United States School Garden Army is the needed national organization to give the children the patriotic and Americanizing impulse that makes the work, as Secretary Lane has said, one of the most important educational movements of recent times.

Whereas, the United States Training Corps for Women, under the direction of Susanna Cocroft,

will tend to make women better fit, physically and mentally, should be en interested in the welfare and progress of the human race. We therefore recommend the support and assistance of the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs to the end that all women may benefit therefrom; be it therefore

THE SANDMAN STORY FOR TONIGHT

By MRS. F. A. WALKER.

Johnnie Mouse Keeps Store

ONE day, while running about a big house, Johnnie Mouse found a whole cheese, and to his little mind came the thought that it would be very fine to keep a store and sell the cheese to the other mice.

So he ran home to tell Mrs. Mouse, and she thought it a very clever plan.
"When you are asleep, Johnnie," she said, "I can keep the store for you, or when you have to hunt for more cheese. So we will not have to pay anyone to tend store, and I am sure in a short time we shall be quite rich."

So Johnnie Mouse and his wife worked all night gathering the crumbs of cake and bits of candy and other things they knew all mice loved to nibble and put them near the cheese.

They were pretty tired, and Mrs.
Mouse told her husband that he should rest, as he was to open his new store that night.

Johnnie Mouse was hungry as well as tired, and she had her eye on all the good things they had collected. Of course, she only intended to just nibble at them just to taste and see if they were all good.

Johnnie Mouse was soon in his bed, sleeping soundly, and as soon as his wife was sure of that she began to taste of all the goodies.

The crumbs of cake she tasted,
then the candy; all were very nice,
but the cheese was what Mrs. Mouse was the most worried about. It might not be good away in the center.

She nibbled the edge, then she nibbled a bit more, and still more, and before long she was out of sight, so far had she eaten into the cheese.

About that time Johnnie Mouse awoke, and running in the store, his wife was nowhere to be found.

Johnnie Mouse was hungry, too, so he nibbled at the cheese on the other side from where Mrs. Mouse had started. Johnnie's teeth were sharp, and soon he was inside and still eating.

Of course he did not dream his little wife was inside the cheese, and she thought her husband was sound asleep at home; so when, pretty soon,
they both had eaten to the very center of the cheese they were some surprised, and very frightened, too,
with their little noses went bump
together.

Out they both ran and home they went, meeting right at the door, and being in a great hurry, they bumped again and rolled into the house.

They sat up and looked at each other a minute, and then Mrs. Mouse asked: "Where have you been?"

"I just ran over to the store to taste things," replied Johnnie.

"Where were you?" said Mrs. Mouse.
"And then they both had to confess they had been inside the cheese."

"Let us run back and eat it up,"
said Johnnie, "and not keep store at all. Perhaps we would not be paid for what we sold, anyway."

Mrs. Mouse thought he was right, and back they went and stayed until broad daylight, eating until they were as fat as two mice could be and walk.

"I think the best way to keep store
is to eat the things yourself," said
Johnnie Mouse as they went home.

"Then there is no one to find fault
with your goods," said Mrs. Mouse.
"And that cheese was too good to sell. No one but mice of fine taste could appreciate it, and it would have been wasted on those mice around here."

"What a wise little wife you are,"
said Johnnie. "If it had not been for your tasting that cheese we might have sold it. And, anyway, it is better to be happy than rich."

The Magnificent Ambersons

An Epic of the Rise of an American City

By BOOTH TARKINGTON.

CHAPTER XVIII (Continued).
"I SUPPOSE so," he muttered, and, satisfied, she leaned back
in her chair; but "Fra Diavolo" was not revived. After a time she rose, went to the steps, and stood for several minutes looking across the street. Then her laughter was faintly heard.

"Are you laughing about something?" Fanny inquired.
"Pardon?" Isabel did not turn,
but continued her observation of what had interested her upon the opposite side of the street.

"I asked: Were you laughing at something?"
"Yes, I was!" And she laughed
again. "It's that funny, fat old Mrs.
Johnson. She has a habit of sitting out the light in her room, and there she is, spying away for all the world to see!"

However, Fanny made no effort to observe this spectacle, but continued her creaking. "I've always thought her a very good woman,"
she said primly.

"So she is," Isabel agreed. "She's a good, friendly old thing, a little too intimate in her manner, sometimes, and if her poor old opera glasses afford her the quiet happiness of knowing what sort of young man our new cook is walking out with, I'm the last to begrudge it to her. Don't you want to come and look at her, George?"

"What? I beg your pardon. I hadn't noticed what you were talking about."

"It's nothing," she laughed. "Only a funny old lady—and she's gone
now. I'm going, too—at least, I'm going indoors to read. It's cooler in the house, but the heat's really not bad anywhere, since eight-fifty Summer's dying. How quickly it goes, once it begins to die!"

When she had gone into the house,
Fanny stopped rocking, and, leaning forward, drew her black gauze wrap about her shoulders and shivered.
"Isn't it queer," she said drearily,
"how your mother can use such words?"

"What words are you talking about?" George asked.
"Words like 'die' and 'dying.' I
is to eat the things yourself," said
Johnnie Mouse as they went home.

"Then there is no one to find fault
with your goods," said Mrs. Mouse.
"And that cheese was too good to sell. No

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE.

When Jones was a pedestrian, He used to slink along the byways, And curse the motorists who ran Their devil-wagons down the highways. He wrote the papers every week, (He signed his letters, 'Constant Reader') And warmly urged the law to wreak A horrid vengeance on the speeder.

"Our law enforcement is too lax," Wrote Jones, "a vigilance committee Will have to hang these maniacs. Or they will devastate the city, The cops should confiscate all cars. As fast as they can overtake 'em, And place behind the prison bars 'Whoever dares to own or make 'em."

Now Jones has changed his point of view, He smiles to see the people shiver When he shoots down traffic in his Filver. And ducks through traffic in his Filver. "What awful says these people are," Says Jones, "By Jingo! I'd like to soak 'em; They walk right underneath your car, And you're arrested if you croak 'em."

And, if the papers you will scan, You'll see that lawless mischief breeder— The criminal pedestrian— Is roundly scored by 'Constant Reader.' "It seems to me," he writes, with heat, "Pedestrians have lost their senses. If they will run across the street, 'Why, let 'em take the consequences!'"
